TOWN GETS TOUGH WITH TRAVELLERS

MP: Harlow is no longer a 'soft touch' for illegal encampments

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TRAVELLERS have been banned from setting up unauthorised encampments in Harlow in a landmark High Court ruling. Harlow Council and Essex County Council applied for an interim injunction to prevent encampments from being set up on 454 individual "parcels" of land. Since October 2013, 109 unauthorised encampments have been set up across the town, with many sites being used multiple times. This is despite there being two authorised permanent sites in the town where travellers are allowed to stay. The Gypsy Council described the injunction as "like a police state". But Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner said: "This is about protecting the town's vulnerable open spaces, upholding the law and responding and listening to the concerns of residents and businesses. "It is not, and never has been, about persecuting any particular group of people or their way of life. "Harlow is a tolerant place; there are and will continue to be positive relations between the town's settled travellers living on the two public permanent sites and the rest of the community. "I am sorry to residents and businesses for the time this has taken as I know it has been an extremely frustrating time for everyone. Seeking a High Court injunction of this size and scale takes time and requires a huge amount of preparation to get it right especially when it has never been done anywhere before." The council said while injunctions had been granted in other areas of the country, it believed no ban on this scale had ever been applied for and granted. If the injunction is breached, the person responsible can be fined or imprisoned for contempt

 Working Hard for Harlow

- Robert has campaigned to ensure that the state pension rises each year in line with either prices, inflation, or 2.5%. This has led to an £800 increase since 2010.
- The Conservatives have pledged to protect universal pension benefits eg. free bus passes, free TV licences. Labour plan to scrap universal pension benefits.
- Residents with private pension schemes now have more freedom over their own money.

Shadow minister calls for u-turn on police cuts

SHADOW Home Office minister Steve Reed called for more police officers during a visit to Harlow on Tuesday.

The Labour politician joined the party's parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride for a tour of the town during which they discussed crime, were shown some of the illegal traveller encampments and visited the Bush Fair area where anti-social behaviour is one of the main problems facing police.

Later Mr Reed blamed the Government for the reduction in the number of police officers on the ground.

"The police [in Essex] have lost over 150 officers in the last year, which is five per cent of the force," he said. "There needs to be more officers to make people feel safe."

He also said reforms were necessary to ensure there could be no repeat of the problem of removing unauthorised traveller encampments in other towns.

"The law needs to change to give the police the powers they need to remove the travellers from the town," he said. "I will go back and look at how that will be possible as we are in the process of putting together Labour's manifesto."

During his visit Mr Reed and Miss Stride met county police and crime commissioner Nick Alston to talk about funding and anti-social behaviour in more depth.

Afterwards, Miss Stride described Mr Reed's visit as "positive", adding: "What we hear is the national story of police cuts. Coming out here today I have heard how the cuts have affected them and it's very worrying."

She also called for more funding to improve young people's services in the town to tackle the problem of anti-social behaviour in areas such as Bush Fair and said she would like to see vacant shop premises turned into a youth centre.

of court. It applies to 35 named travellers.

More than 300 sites covered by the court order are considered "vulnerable", including parks, playgrounds, previously occupied sites, highway verges, schools and private land.

The interim injunction, granted by Mrs Justice Patterson, will remain in place until a hearing for the full injunction takes place later in the year, Harlow Council said.

Joseph Jones, a spokesman for the Gypsy Council, said the granting of the injunction was "like a police state".

"Unauthorised encampments are a reaction to lack of provision by local authorities," he said.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said: "Tuesday's announcement is a major step forward to ridding our town of this blight once and for all, and comes alongside commitments made by the Chief Constable to look at what more can be done."

Grateful

"Although I think this is something that should have been done a long time ago, I am grateful for all of the fantastic work of the Harlow anti-social behaviour team, who have worked hard alongside Essex County Council to secure this injunction."

"We must ensure that Harlow never again is seen as a soft touch for unauthorised or illegal encampments," he added.

Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride said that the announcement should only be the beginning.

She added: "I welcome Mrs Justice Patterson's decision today, this is an important step on the road to ending illegal encampments in Harlow, but as I have made clear there is no room for complacency."

"The Government can and should still act to strengthen the powers councils have at their disposal."

A protest that was due to be held on Saturday, March 14 has now been cancelled.

Out-of-town offer to wait list pupils

30 places available at Burnt Mill's 'sister' school

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than 300 children on the waiting list of one of Harlow's five secondary schools are being given the chance to apply for 30 places at an academy in Stansted.

Parents of the Year 6 youngsters applied for a place at Burnt Mill Academy from September but were not among the 210 successful applicants who received their confirmation notices on Monday.

They have now been told they can try for a place at Forest Hall Academy in Stansted Mountfitchet 15 miles away.

Burnt Mill executive headteacher Helena Mills has recently taken responsibility for Forest Hall after the school joined the Burnt Mill Co-operative Academy Trust on February 1.

Former Burnt Mill deputy head Stephen Hehir has been drafted in as acting head at Forest Hall, which is now being dubbed "mini Burnt Mill".

Ms Mills said: "I knew we wouldn't be able to accommodate all the children who really wanted a place at Burnt Mill because we are full and have taken over our PAN [published admission numbers] in previous years."

"I know what we offer here is quite unique and that so many parents are desperate for their children to gain from the opportunities we offer. The only way to be able to accommodate more families is to offer places to families in our sister school, Forest Hall."

She added: "As executive head of both schools in Harlow and Stansted, I am able to ensure our outstanding practices are enjoyed by all our children."

"Indeed, students in both schools benefit from our fantastic leaders, outstanding teachers and amazing facilities."

"Our philosophy at Burnt Mill and Forest Hall is that children only get one chance at secondary education and we cannot allow them to fail. Our job is to inspire every child in our care to achieve amazing things."

BMAT is also responsible for Cooks Spinney, Freshwaters and Little Pardon primary schools in Harlow and Rodon Primary.

■ SOME 93 per cent of children were allocated a place at either their first or second secondary schools, according to Essex County Council.

A total of 86 per cent of parents have been offered their first preference, with seven per cent getting their second.

Cllr Ray Gooding, cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "It is fantastic that we have once again been able to provide so many children with a place at a school preferred by their parents despite significant growth of the county and an ever-increasing demand for school places."

Cigarettes and alcohol seized in crackdown on illicit goods

THOUSANDS of illicit cigarettes and large quantities of tobacco and alcohol have been seized by customs officers in an operation to disrupt the sale and supply of illegal goods in Harlow and Southend.

HM Revenue and Customs investigators, working with police and trading standards officers visited around 16 retail premises and one storage depot suspected of selling or storing duty-free tobacco and alcohol goods.

The raids were carried out as part of HMRC's Tobacco Taskforce crackdown.

Tobacco and alcohol products were seized from nine premises. The haul included 11,360 cigarettes on which £2,091 in duty and VAT had not been paid, 10.3 kilos of tobacco with £1,596 in unpaid duty and VAT and 158 litres of alcohol, including spirits and wine with £950 duty and VAT evaded.

Paul Barton, assistant director of criminal investigation at HMRC, said: "The sale of illegal tobacco will not be tolerated by us or our partner agencies."

Strategy

"Disrupting criminal trade is at the heart of our strategy to clampdown on the illicit market, which costs the UK around £2bn a year. This is theft from the taxpayer and undermines legitimate traders."

Detective Constable Richard Adams of the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate said: "Essex Police assisted HMRC and Essex Trading Standards in a successful operation to tackle the sale and supply of illegal tobacco and alcohol in Harlow and Southend."

"This type of criminal activity will not be tolerated. As well as making profits for criminals, these products can also be potentially harmful to health."

Cllr Roger Walters, Essex County Council's lead councillor for trading standards, added: "Those involved in the distribution of illegal tobacco may be encouraging people, including children, to smoke by providing a cheap source of unregulated cigarettes."

"Offenders need to know they will face consequences if they choose to deal in these illegal products."

Students fired up by Apprentice finalist Bianca

WISE WORDS: Bianca Miller addresses business students at Harlow College

BUDDING entrepreneurs were given some valuable advice when one of the finalists from the last series of The Apprentice visited Harlow College yesterday (Wednesday).

Bianca Miller, who finished runner-up in the BBC show fronted by Lord Alan Sugar, offered top tips to BTEC business students.

She said she was impressed with the ideas and creative spark shown by the students.

"I love coming in and talking to students and I'm having a great time at Harlow College," she said.

"A lot of people feel they do not have the relevant experience for a job but the message I wanted to share was that the experience they do have can be used in any scenario."

Ms Miller's determination and ambition carried her all the way through to the final of the series where she pitched her idea for flesh coloured tights.

While she impressed Lord Sugar with her business idea, she eventually lost out to winner Mark Wright.

Street lights could cost an extra £21k

Council may still have to raid reserves after tax hike

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE bill for switching on street lights in Harlow could cost the town's taxpayers an extra £20,000, it has been revealed.

In January, Harlow councillors voted to raise its share of the council tax by 1.5 per cent to raise the £100,000 needed to turn the lights back on between the hours of midnight and 5am.

But at a special meeting of the council on Thursday, it was revealed the switch-on - which has still to be agreed by Essex County Council - could cost £121,000.

Under questioning from Conservative group leader Andrew Johnson, resources portfolio holder Mike Danvers admitted the difference but said it represented was "only a tiny amount".

"We will find the other £21,000," he added, suggesting the money could be taken from reserves.

Council leader Jon Clempner explained the £100,000 figure was based on County Hall's initial estimate of the annual savings in turning off street lights in Harlow.

He added: "The council's plan to keep street lights on all night is subject to the county council's agreement and the cost and terms of turning the lights back on are being discussed with them.

"A figure of £121,000 was mentioned by the county council in a meeting held last week as this includes adding carbon taxes to the figure."

"However, at this point no final figure has been agreed, nor has the county council agreed to turn the lights back on. If the cost is more than £100,000 I know that this can be accommodated within the existing budget in a sustainable way and without further impact on council tax levels."

"The important issue is that the council needs to respond to the overwhelming feeling of the community about the impact turning street lights off has had on them," he added.

The council carried out a review of the lighting policy during its budget consultation last summer. It said the result showed widespread public support for the move.

This week Cllr Rodney Bass, Essex County Council's cabinet member for highways and transportation, said an initial meeting had been held with Harlow Council representatives at which they were asked to justify the request for the lights to be switched back on.

"They have been asked to submit the rationale, preferably balanced with evidence, for their assertions on part-night lighting to justify their request to us," he said.

"When this is to hand we will consider their request."

What chance of 'honesty'?

SIR I agree with Guy Mitchinson's sentiment in his letter (Star, February 26) in which he says he would like to think that we all could make more of an effort to be honest with voters.

I wonder, then, what he would make of a Prime Minister who in 2010 said he would get immigration down to tens of thousands – "no ifs, no buts" – and who now presides over a far higher level of immigration than when he took office.

The 2014 immigration figure is 298,000 which includes a huge rise in non-EU immigrants.

Also, what would he make of a Chancellor of the Exchequer who in 2010 said he would balance the books by 2015 and has now borrowed more money in five years than the previous Labour government did in its entire 13 years in office.

I'm all for honesty but good luck getting any in the run up to a General Election.

Councillors were not paid

SIR There is much discussion going on, mainly by Labour, regarding MPs having second jobs but there has been no mention of second jobs for district and county councillors.

As a local councillor in the 1960s I, and all other councillors, represented Harlow voluntarily and did not receive any pay. We had simple names for committees – public health, area health, establishment – and each meeting had no set hours.

Today, councillors are paid an allowance. Look at it how you may but they are paid. The basic pay for a Harlow councillor is £4,720 and if you then become chairman or deputy of one of the committees you can get many thousands more. Why? Their responsibilities are no greater now than in the 1960s when we were building a future Harlow and were proud to be called "the pram town". A return to unpaid councillors could save us at least £200,000.

Hundreds of us in Harlow do voluntary work which takes up many hours. We do not ask for,

Good and bad road users

SIR In reply to the letter from Vanda Mason (Star, February 26), there are good and bad cyclists but there are also bad, inconsiderate drivers.

Although there are many cyclists that use the roads without lights and wear dark clothing, there are also many motorists who drive without lights.

And have you tried using the cycle tracks in Harlow? They are badly maintained and when you do get to use them you have to navigate pedestrians as many of the footpaths beside the cycle tracks are also badly maintained.

Sometimes it is safer to walk in the cycle tracks than risk breaking something on the footpaths, although some pedestrians feel it is their right to use the cycle tracks as a footpath.

Selective view on education

SIR With regards to Ukip vice-chairman Chris Staunton's letter that makes reference to "Play School lefties" (Letters, February 26), I thought it might be useful to examine the party's education policy.

Nigel Farage, dubbed "one of us" by his supporters, was privately educated at Dulwich College where the school fees currently start at £5,801 per term for day pupils. It was at this exclusive school in south London that a young Farage joined the politics society as a Conservative party activist.

After studying at A-level, he shunned university to continue the family line of stockbrokers by becoming a commodities trader on the London Metal Exchange. In the frenetic atmosphere of the LME trading ring he would have formed his education policies by listening to his colleagues' reminiscences of sweating over Latin and philosophy homework, relieved only by the occasional desperate bid for glory on the cricket, rugby and hockey pitches.

So rather naturally, given the money pouring into UKIP from hedge fund managers and merchant bankers, Mr Farage would like to see a nostalgic return to selective education. This would mean better school facilities and a greater chance of a place at university for middle class children while working class kids would get a second-rate education and the chance to wield a spanner in a supposedly revived manufacturing sector.

Also, Ukip would end the scandal of Britain's hard-up private schools by adding to their existing public subsidy of £88m in tax breaks.

Perhaps I'm just being cynical as a result of lefties distorting my outlook, so in the interest of fairness I decided to consult Ukip's Harlow branch website which was built and published in 2014. I have to declare that I was amazed when I clicked on the 'policies' page as I fully expected to see just their EU and immigration policies. To confound my cynicism I was greeted with a blank page!

My leftie mates would simply say this blank space is the result of Ukip not having any real policies or making it up as they go along.

I would, being rather more charitable, suggest it's possibly due to a design nightmare of white text on a white background or maybe they are preoccupied consulting the dictionary for words beginning with the letter 'd'.

David Forman

Importance of Fair Trade

SIR As Fair Trade fortnight is nearly over I would like to remind readers of how much good is done by the simple act of choosing Fair Trade goods.

There are a large range of products, not just tea and coffee, stocked by most supermarkets as well as many smaller shops. It does not take long to look for the distinctive logo usually in green and blue, although sometimes just black and white.

Conditions on tea and coffee plantations in particular can be horrendous as they often employ child labour. Anything with the Fair Trade logo has been produced under good working conditions and by workers paid a fair wage.

I appeal to Star readers to take the trouble to look for Fair Trade products whenever they are shopping as such a small effort can achieve so much.

Car park resurfaced

A GRANT of more than £17,000 from Essex County Council has been used by North Weald Bassett Parish Council to resurface part of the car park at Thornwood Village Hall.

The hall, in Weald Hall Lane, is seen as an integral part of village life and the new surface will give a safer access to the building, the playing field, children's play area and allotments as well as helping to alleviate on-road parking.

Victim of hit-and-run

A MOTORIST who failed to stop after an accident which left a cyclist with a broken collarbone is being sought by police.

The accident happened in Epping Road, Nazeing, at 6.20am on Monday. The 52-year-old cyclist was in collision with a black five-door car which may have been a VW Polo.

The driver left the scene before police and paramedics arrived. The cyclist was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Accused of fuel theft

A HARLOW man accused of stealing 2,000 litres of heating fuel worth £1,650 from St Clare Hospice is to stand trial.

Jake Seaton, 21, of Barn Mead, pleaded not guilty to a charge of theft when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday. He was released on bail until July 15.

Pub burglaries

POLICE are investigating reports of three burglaries at pubs in Harlow.

The first was in Fore Street, Old Harlow, on February 20. The following day a pub in Market Street was suspected to have been burgled and three days premises in Tillwicks Road were targeted.

It's victory for residents over Olympic trees

Council agrees to relocate legacy saplings

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

TREES planted near a children's play area will be dug up and relocated after Harlow Council bowed to pressure from residents.

Parents and children held banners as they protested against the placement of five trees close to the play park near Henry Moore Primary School in Church Langley.

They said the trees, which commemorate the 2012 London Olympics as part of Harlow Council's legacy project, were planted on a grassed area used by children of all ages for football and other sports.

One resident, who asked not to be named, said: "We love trees and it isn't as if we don't want them, but we would like them moved to somewhere suitable."

"Obviously this would need to be done as soon as possible to prevent damage to growing roots."

"We love the idea of trees but in that location they actually prevent participation in sport, which is completely at odds with the idea that these represent part of Harlow's celebration of the Olympic legacy."

The residents, Harlow MP Robert Halfon and even ward councillors were unaware of the plans.

Although there was support for the idea of planting trees as a lasting memorial to the Games, the residents said they should be relocated.

This week the council said it had listened to the residents' views and had agreed to move the trees.

PROTEST: Youngsters with their posters calling on Harlow Council to move the trees which they say are stopping them from playing sport views and had agreed to move the trees.

Cllr Mark Wilkinson said: "In all 11 wards in Harlow trees are being planted that represent the five Olympic rings."

"These trees will help improve the environment but will also be a lasting memory of when the country hosted the 2012 Olympic Games. This is being funded as part of the ward improvements programme. Ward councillors were advised of proposed locations."

"We have now agreed to move the trees in Church Langley to another location and ward councillors are in the process of talking to residents to agree an alternative location."

He added: "The relocation of the trees will be carried by the local contractor which planted them. The cost of which will be kept to a minimum and come out of existing budgets."

Hands off health service

A CAMPAIGN group demanding more protection for the National Health Service staged a protest in Harlow on Saturday.

The gathering in Broad Walk was co-ordinated by 38 Degrees, whose local spokesman Ian Kennett said: "We all need the NHS at our best and worst moments in life."

"Harlow's day of action shows our MP Robert Halfon and Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride that if they want to sell off or run down our NHS they'll have a fight on their hands."

David Babbs, executive director of 38 Degrees, said: "People in Harlow will be standing with thousands of people across the country to say that we love our NHS too much to let it be sold off to the highest bidder."

Signing up shoppers to get in the pink and run

A PINK parade has been called to action for Race For Life, an annual fun run to raise money for Cancer Research.

Mums, daughters, grandmothers, friends and colleagues are all being invited to complete a 5km or 10km challenge wearing pink at Harlow Town Park, on Sunday, May 17.

To promote the event organiser Courtney Culverhouse is taking Race For Life's "Battle HQ" to Harlow's Water Gardens this Friday, March 6 from 11am.

Shoppers will be given the chance to sign up for the run and also get into the spirit with warrior face painting, funky nail art and Race 4 Life tattoos.

Brave

Ms Culverhouse said: "We are calling on the brave ladies of Harlow to help make this year's Race For Life our best ever."

"It doesn't matter how fit or fast you are because Race For Life is not competitive. It's about an army of women standing shoulder-to-shoulder, ready to take on cancer. With fire in their bellies and trainers at the ready, we know that Harlow's ladies are up for the challenge."

Last year, 2110 women in Harlow pulled on their trainers and raised £156,502 for life-saving research. This year, organisers want 2,200 women and girls to stride out to help raise a target of £160,000 to save more lives.

Young carers' shot at some recreation

HARDWORKING members of a young carers group have been rewarded for their hard efforts with an all-expenses paid treat, funded by Harlow Tye Rotary Club.

A team from the Rotary club visited the offices of Caring for Harlow Carers on Friday, February 20 to hand over a cheque to pay for a fun night out at Quaser Elite in the town centre.

Night off

Young Carers is a bi-weekly club for youths aged 8-18, who meet in two age groups to chill out, play games and have a night off.

The laser quest game at Quaser Elite was their choice of fun activity.

The 40 youths who attend all have to battle caring for a sibling or parent against the pressures of school and college work.

Dennis Northcott, Harlow Tye

CHEQUE IT OUT: From left, CHC manager Fiona Langridge, Harlow Tye Rotary Club president Roger Leigh, Harlow Young Carers manager Helen Kenny, and the Rotary's Chris Harriss

Rotary Club chairman, said: "We are pleased to help this very deserving group of young people as part of our policy of assisting good causes in our local community."

High-flying benefit from bank fine handout

ESSEX and Herts Air Ambulance Trust are set to benefit from a quarter of a million pound fine imposed upon a bank who had rigged interest rates.

The Trust will use the Libor bank fine money to invest in expansion and refurbishment of their North Weald Airbase and improve training facilities.

The news was welcomed by Chancellor George Osborne and Harlow MP Robert Halfon who confirmed the funding at a meeting with the Association of Air Ambulances on Wednesday, February 24.

Mr Osborne commented: "It is VERY PLEASED: Harlow MP Robert Halfon with George Osborne

absolutely right that we use funds from those who demonstrated the worst values to reward those who demonstrate the best, like our hardworking air ambulance crews.

"This funding will play a vital role in helping to save hundreds of lives every year."

Mr Halfon said: "This extra funding is great news for Essex and Herts Air Ambulance, as it will allow for extra investment in their air base and better training facilities. This will benefit patients in Harlow and across Essex and Hertfordshire."

Last year, the Chancellor announced relief of VAT on air ambulance charities and aviation fuel giving a further boost to the finances of the charity. Combined, the changes will be worth more than £15m nationally over the next five years.

UNDER STARTER'S ORDERS: George Mole is organising a race night to raise funds for cancer charities

Cancer survivor runs race night in aid of good cause

FUNDRAISERS will be jockeying for position at a charity race night in Harlow.

George Mole, a retired school bus driver who beat bowel cancer two years ago, organised the event for Prostate Cancer Research and Bowel Cancer Research.

Held at Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club on Saturday, March 28, at 7.30pm, all proceeds from the night will be donated to the two charities. The 77-year-old from Longfield, Harlow, said: "A lot of people at the Bowls Club have also been affected by bowel or prostate cancer in some way and I'm just hoping to raise as much money as possible."

Funeral directors Masterstons are supporting the event by providing race equipment.

George is hoping to raise £900 and thanked businesses for donating items for the raffle.

Organisers of Kisses4Kids fundraiser are promising a riot of 1920s-themed fun

Come and have a ball and help sick children's families

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

CHARITY Kisses4Kids is calling on the community to help raise much-needed funds to help grant wishes for children with life-limiting illnesses.

The charity is holding a 1920s-themed fundraising ball on Saturday, March 14 at Hunters Meet in Hatfield Heath and is being supported by housing and care provider Places for People.

Tickets are now available for the event, which promises a night of old-fashioned twenties-style glitz, glamour and fun with cocktails, four-course meal, live entertainment, casino games, raffle and an auction.

Tumour

Kisses4Kids was established by Stacey Johnson, who having spent long periods of time as a teenager in hospital battling an inoperable brain tumour, wanted to do something to ease the boredom and brighten the lives of children and young people who had experienced illness and their families.

Since becoming a registered charity in 2008, Kisses4Kids has helped hundreds of children with days out, family trips away and even a sensory room and outside play area at the Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow.

Ball organiser and Kisses4Kids trustee Sara Evans first got involved with the charity when her daughter Evie, now 4, was in and out of hospital with a variety of lung and heart conditions relating to her prematurity.

Sara, who lives in Harlow, said: "When you spend a lot of time in hospital with a sick child you become completely institutionalised. Normal life takes a back seat as you spend your days and nights caring for your child and willing them to fight to live."

"You don't realise how much you need a family day, how much you just need to have some fun until someone comes along and offers it to you."

"Kisses4Kids sent us to Chessington Zoo for the day when Evie came out of hospital. It created some amazing memories for us and they've continued to support us as we bring up Evie and her sisters."

"Creating happy memories is what Kisses4Kids strive to do for many families in the area. I'm so happy to be part of such an amazing charity, and hope to raise as much money as we can to help many more people."

Committed

Mary Parsons, group director at Places for People said: "We were touched to hear about the fantastic work this local charity is doing and wanted to help them raise funds so they can carry on helping families when they need it most."

■ Tickets for the ball cost £55 or £500 for a table for 10 and can be booked by phoning Sara on 07908 139883 or by e-mailing saraevans@kisses4kids.org.uk

Benefits: Work-shy culture or just too few jobs for town?

HATE travels fast and soon after Benefits Britain finished showing on Channel 5 the world had made a new enemy.

The outrage stirred from the documentary was enough to rival even Big Brother and much of it centred on Harlow teenager Dean Rowley.

As a claimant of Jobseekers Allowance (JSA) Dean is something of a stereotype. He didn't help his cause by boasting about his benefits being "free money" nor did it do him any favours to say he was content to stay at home watching TV and taking selfies.

His admittance to phoning his Mum from his bed when he couldn't be bothered to get up seemed to be the final nail in the coffin. The floodgates opened and, unsurprisingly, Dean suddenly didn't find himself too popular.

"His benefits should be stopped, he clearly isn't looking for a job, and has no life ambition" was one of the kinder messages posted online about his lifestyle. It also fuelled online rage against a 'benefits culture' which gives young people 'no incentive' to find jobs.

The reaction stemmed from a notion that Dean is part of a growing number of youth draining the countries resources one selfie at a time. But is this one example a true reflection of a national issue? How many Deans are there?

Dean Rowley became an overnight villain when he boasted about his benefits being "free money" on a Channel 5 documentary. The example of this Harlow teenager typifies a presumed work-shy culture, but are we right to call all jobseeker claimants lazy? How many Deans are there? WILLIAM MATA tries to find out.

Unemployment has nationally declined to 7.9 per cent with Harlow below the national average. For the 46,000 people in the town considered economically active, only 6.25 per cent are not working. There has also been a drop in the number of 16-19 year old NEETs (Not in Education, Employment or Training) which for many is proof the Government's employment policies are working.

Recession

There are currently 1,248 people on JSA in Harlow, which is only a slight increase on figures from 10 years ago which, considering we've undergone a recession and a rising population, seems reasonable.

Interestingly, there is also evidence to show there are many more people unemployed who are not claiming job seekers benefits (2,900) than those who are.

However, shoppers visiting the Harvey Centre were very much split into two camps - those who feel getting a job is easier said than done and those who wonder how hard it can be.

Shopper Heidi Lucas is very much of the latter. "You can find a job if you put your mind to it," she said, "There are plenty of opportunities available for young people and it should not be difficult."

Her views are backed up by Jean Wiltshire, who said: "If young people want a job they will go and get a job, that's all there is to it," she said.

However, other shoppers were more sympathetic and said jobseekers should be given support rather than stigma.

Rob Cole, of Foldcroft, said: "It's very hard to get a job these days, I feel sorry for the young people. It's happening across the country, they're just not given a chance."

Doll Deemer agreed: "It seems to be very hard indeed for young people to find a job these days."

The figure of 1,248 claimants of JSA

Benefits fact file

■ 2,900 people are currently unemployed from an able to work population of 46,400 in Harlow.

■ 492 jobs were offered on the Job Centre plus website Universal Jobmatch last month.

■ 6.25 per cent of Harlow are unemployed, lower than the UK average of 7.9 per cent.

■ In Harlow more males (743) than females (505) are on the dole.

does seem high but it should be considered that 492 jobs were offered by the Job Centre's internal Universal Jobmatch last month in Harlow alone.

Jobs are available in Harlow but there is more to the situation than suggested in these figures. Some groups find getting work much harder, than others with age, qualifications and skills all being a factor.

Graduates are among the hardest hit, with figures suggesting that as many as 85 people are regularly applying for one vacancy in some fields.

Although a number of jobs are available, they may not be positions that everyone has the skills or abilities to take on. This could explain why many people out of work do not take on JSA unless they have to.

It could be argued that both schools of thought I found are in their own way correct. Jobs are there but getting a job is very hard for some people.

Let's leave the last word to Dean. "Eventually I would like to get a job when I can find one," he said. "It's not healthy for a 19-year-old to sit in his bedroom all day doing nothing."

His case is an extreme one but his problem is not uncommon in Harlow. Jobs are there but the real hard work will be in getting one.

MP calls for an end to 'unfair' cremation form charges by GPs

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon is calling on the Government to scrap the fee charged by doctors to grieving families for a cremation certificate.

Under the current system, two GPs must complete the form and can charge £80 for the service - a total of £160.

But Mr Halfon said the charges were both unfair and excessive as GPs were using the service to top up their annual salaries, penalising families who opted for cremation rather than burial.

He argued the service should be performed as "part of the day-to-day job of being a doctor in the free NHS" in a similar way to signing death certificates without claiming fees.

In 2010 it was estimated the practice had earned GPs a total of £15m.

Mr Halfon raised the issue in the House of Commons, citing the example of a Harlow man who complained he faced financial hardship after he was asked to pay the £160 charge for a certificate following the death of his father.

Vulnerable

"These fees are hitting people who are already vulnerable and going through an incredibly difficult time," said Mr Halfon. "It is unfair that families wishing for their loved ones to be cremated should have to pay an extra £160 for this service, which is unfair and excessive."

"Nobody should be left out of pocket in what is already such an upsetting time".

In response, Leader of the House William Hague said the Government was committed to reforming the death certification system.

"When a patient dies it is the statutory duty of the doctor who has attended them in their last illness to issue a medical certificate of cause of death," he told Mr Halfon.

"There is no fee payable for completing that but there are other forms before cremation of a deceased patient. The proposed reform of the system would remove the need for cremation form fees."

Figures reveal a 36% increase in hate crimes

Majority of offences are racially motivated

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

AN anti-racism charity is visiting several schools in Harlow after latest police figures show an increase in incidents of hate crime in the town.

Figures released by Essex Police reveal there were a total of 170 reported offences involving race, gender, religion or disability from August 2013 to July 2014 – a rise of 36 per cent over the previous 12-month period.

The statistics show that around 14 hate crimes a month are reported in the Harlow district. The majority of offences involved racial prejudice, with people of eastern European descent the most likely targets.

At a recent meeting of Harlow Council's scrutiny committee meeting, a police representative said the percentage increase was "representative of the low number of hate crimes in Harlow".

Also present at the meeting was Steve Goodsell, south of England regional manager for anti-prejudice charity Show Racism the Red Card. He said the best weapon to fight discrimination was education.

"I have working for SRRRC for two years and I always feel there is more work to be done," he said.

"I can go into schools and see opinions are not always changing. Things are not always getting better and in some cases are actually getting worse.

"Harlow is a new town which is quite typically diverse and because of that can be more accepting. But it still has its problems and I've spoken to people who are under the impression that Britain is awash with Muslims, that 60 per cent of the UK is Islamic and we being taken over by Romanians.

"The reality is that the UK is probably around 10 per cent Muslim, if that, and people will buy into what they hear in the media."

Mr Goodsell is currently in the process of visiting four schools in Harlow during which SRRRC holds workshops with students in an environment where they are encouraged to voice their opinions.

SRRRC gained recognition of its work in 1996 when former Newcastle United goalkeeper Shaka Hislop publicly praised its work after his family was subjected to discrimination. Other supporters include Arsenal legends Ian Wright and Thierry Henry and former Spurs striker Jermain Defoe.

NUMB: Owner John Martin by the empty cages in the aviary targeted by thieves

Owner's shock as thieves steal 14 rare finches

Birds worth £3,000 snatched from aviary

Jo O'Reilly

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BIRD keeper said he felt "numb" after his collection of 14 rare breeding Siberian bullfinches were stolen from an aviary in the garden of his Harlow home.

Thieves struck during the early hours of Thursday, using a wheelie bin to climb over a wall at pensioner John Martin's house in Peterswood.

They then forced open a window in one of 65-year-old Mr Martin's two aviaries and removed seven pairs of birds worth more than £3,000 from their cages.

It is believed the thieves would have needed a large box or cage to transport the birds, which form close bonds with each other and would have made a lot of noise if they were separated from their mates.

"These birds are me and my wife's retirement," said a devastated Mr Martin. "We don't have a large pension as we put our money to use on these birds."

"It's like losing a dog, I just feel numb." The birds, worth between £250 to £300 per breeding pair, require specialist care and Mr Martin predicted that without it half would be dead within a week.

"What people don't understand is that when they take them they get stressed and die," he said. "They won't keep many of them alive."

"You have to look after them; they won't live long if you don't take care of them."

Mr Martin who has lived in Harlow for 40 years and has been keeping birds since childhood, believes the people who stole them were planning to sell them on.

"It's organised crime," he said. "These birds are really scarce this time of year, especially in England."

"This isn't an isolated case. I've had phone calls from breeders all over the country who have lost more bullfinches than me."

It is not the first time Mr Martin has been targeted by thieves. After a number of his bullfinches were stolen last year he fitted an alarm to one of his aviaries. He is now upping his security further.

Police are appealing for information about the theft and want to hear from anyone who thinks they have seen or heard birds being carried or stored since the theft which took place between 2.30am and 7am last Thursday (February 26). Anyone who can help should contact Harlow police on the non-emergency 101 number.

■ They form strong, lasting pair bonds.

Pervert priest guilty of indecent assault

A CATHOLIC priest who worked in Harlow during the 1990s has been convicted of abusing a vulnerable boy at a care home.

Father Tony McSweeney, 68, attacked the teen at the home in Hounslow between 1979 and 1981.

The disgraced clergyman, who was priest of the Holy Cross and St Luke's parish between 1993 and 1997 and now lives in Pease Pottage, West Sussex, was found guilty on Friday by a jury at Southwark Crown Court of one count of indecent assault and three charges of making indecent photographs of children.

But he was cleared of three counts of indecent assault and one of taking an indecent photograph of a child.

McSweeney, who officiated at the wedding of boxing legend Frank Bruno in 1990, showed no emotion as the verdicts were given.

He was released on bail for reports to be prepared ahead of sentencing next month.

Anti-social tenant banned from home

A PROPERTY in Cooks Spinney, Harlow, has been boarded up after police were granted a three-month closure order.

Neighbourhood officer PC Neil Armor, working with Harlow Council, applied to Chelmsford Magistrates Court for the order after other residents complained the tenant's anti-social behaviour was having an adverse impact on their lives.

One resident, who asked not to be named, told the Star the past few months had been a "living hell".

The property has been boarded up and the tenant has been banned from returning during the period of the order.

Chief Inspector Alan Ray said: "The local neighbourhood team will continue to use any legislation available to them to send a clear message that any anti-social behaviour will not be tolerated within Harlow."

Academy's exams joy praised by minister

THE progress and development of students at Stewards Academy in Harlow has been praised in a letter from the Government's schools minister David Laws.

Mr Laws, the Liberal Democrat MP for Yeovil, wrote to the school to congratulate it on its recent exam results.

The school, in Parnall Road, is ranked in the top 90 nationally for sustained improvement in the percentage of pupils achieving five or more good GCSE results, including maths and English.

Effective

In his letter Mr Laws said: "You are increasingly effective at providing pupils with a good start in life and preparing them well for their futures."

Deputy headteacher Helen Ginger said: "This is welcome recognition by the Government of the hard work that Stewards pupils and staff put into their studies."

Hair and beauty course students compete for title

Winners by a clear head on college awards day

William Mata

william.mata@harlowstar.co.uk

IT was a good hair day for students at Harlow College when they took part in its ninth annual hair competition.

About 100 students on the college's hair and beauty course took part in the event, which was judged by a panel of industry experts.

This theme of this year's competition was seasons of the year. Each student had to prepare a mood board and then design their models' entire look including hair, make up and costume.

College principal Karen Spencer said: "The students showed great flair and creativity, using the theme of the seasons to inspire new hairstyles."

"Participating in a skills competition with industry experts judging really helps their confidence and prepares them for a competitive world.

"I am really proud of their achievements and excited for the winners who now get to compete in a regional competition."

The competition was won by Lillie West, a Level 2 Diploma hairdressing student, who will now represent the college in the Chris & Sons Student of Year Competition where she will be up against students from other colleges in London and the south east.

Proud

"I still can't believe I won the competition," she said. "It's such a great achievement and I'm so proud of myself."

"I practised, practised and practised so I'm glad all the hard work and effort I put in paid off. Now I'm looking forward to going on to the next stage of the competition and representing the college."

Pupils revel in spotlight at 02 Arena

PUPILS from Little Parndon Primary School in Harlow can add their name to the elite list of singers who have performed at the 02 Arena in London.

The 32 children took to the stage to deliver a dazzling performance as part of the national Young Voices competition in front of an audience of thousands.

They sang 10 songs, including a performance with X Factor star Lucy Spraggan.

Natalie Duncan, the school's music leader, said: "The children have worked so hard. They will have treasured memories. It was a fantastic experience."

■ YEAR 2 pupils from the school in Park Mead got to take an adventure of their own as part of an icy voyage of discovery.

The six- and seven-year-olds checked in at a mock airport before finding their classroom had been transformed into the Arctic. Dressed in polar wear, they made full size sleeping bags to keep warm.

They then went from the freezing to the fiery by studying the Great Fire of London, laying out their playground to replicate the 1666 disaster.

The model Pudding Lane was then set alight.

Eager to tell tales to appear in print

BUDDING WRITERS: Years 1-5 at Cooks Spinney Primary School

THE chance for their work to appear in a new book fuelled the imagination of pupils at a Harlow primary school when they were challenged to write a 100-word story.

Children from Year 1 to Year 5 at Cooks Spinney School responded with enthusiasm and 128 of the best pieces of work were submitted to the competition organisers for publication.

Classic

The children had to begin the stories with the classic introduction 'Once upon a time'.

Those whose stories were chosen were presented with certificates.

Assistant head of school Amy Dias said: "This is the second writing competition we have entered and the children are motivated by having the opportunity to have their work published."

Just what the doctor ordered for PAH ward

CHILDREN at Holy Cross Pre-School, in Traces Road, Harlow, have raised hundreds of pounds for the children's ward at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

They dressed up for a doctors and nurses themed day which also included craft activities and a cake sale. The event raised a total of £526.50 for Dolphin Ward.

Head of nursery Natalie Lynch said: "All the children had a great time dressing up."

"We felt it was a great way to raise money for a cause that is so close to many of our families' hearts."

Vintage railway a perfect backdrop for calendar girls

Models turn back time for charity photo shoot

Simon Murfitt

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ANYONE passing through North Weald station last weekend may have caught a glimpse of an entirely different sort of arrival.

The heritage railway was used as the backdrop for an unusual 1940s-themed calendar which will be sold to raise funds for charity.

Thirty women appeared in some Calendar Girls-style poses – some more risqué than others – for the calendar which will be sold to raise money for mental health charity PEACHY (Promoting Early Access to Counselling and Help for Youth).

Organiser Melanie Green said: "It was absolutely freezing, bitterly cold, but it went really well. We got all the shots, some super pictures, and we can now start editing them.

"The funniest thing that happened was we had two girls completely naked on the station showing their bums and about 15 workmen in orange jackets walked down the platform. We just couldn't cover them up quick enough; the men's eyes were bulging out of their heads."

PEACHY is a cause that Melanie holds close to her heart. "The charity is an organisation founded by a lady whose son committed suicide while he was waiting for a counselling appointment," she said.

"I was thinking that I wanted to do something and, seeing that I had a background in fundraising, we thought this would be something that could potentially help someone out of something tragic."

Melanie is hoping to raise around £1,500 by producing 200 calendars which will then be sold for £7.50.

Success

The 41-year-old is a fundraising enthusiast and has trekked to all corners of the world to raise money for Macmillan Cancer Support, including trips to Jordan and Cuba, over the past five years.

After turning her attentions to PEACHY, she organised a 1940s-themed party in December, the success of which gave her the idea for the calendar.

"I had done a calendar before and some people approached me at the party saying I should do another one," she explained.

She thanked the railway, The King's Head pub for offering a room for the girls to stay out of the cold in and all the models who took part.

"There wasn't any persuading," she said. "I actually had more girls saying they wanted to do it than I had space for in the calendar."

"There are all ages, shapes and sizes and the oldest is 70 – it's a quite a brave thing to do." Dean Walton, business development manager at Epping Ongar Railway, said he was delighted to support a worthwhile cause.

He said: "The charity approached us to ask for some help in providing a venue for their calendar that will hopefully raise quite a lot of money to help raise awareness of mental health."

Raising mental health awareness

■ PEACHY – Promoting Early Access to Counselling and Help for Youth

At any one time as many as one in 10 children and young people in Britain aged between five and 15 are suffering from emotional problems that can affect their mental health.

PEACHY, whose slogan is

'Catch them before they fall', believes that early access to counselling and help should be made more available.

The charity works to raise awareness of mental health issues in young people and provide counselling and support where provision through normal routes is inadequate.

DANIEL ROBINSON & SONS

*Independent FamilyFuneral Directors and Monumental MasonsEstablished 1892WHY CHOOSE AN INDEPENDENT FUNERAL DIRECTOR?

In all forms of business today there are big national companies that have made their profits through taking over smaller firms. The funeral profession is no exception. Many businesses have changed hands but have not necessarily changed names. That makes it hard for you to distinguish between a family owned firm and the branch of a vast conglomerate.

The independent funeral profession has a long and proud history of personal service to local communities. Carrying on the family tradition is a way of life for many independent funeral directors. They are deeply committed to upholding professional standards.

Never be embarrassed to ask a funeral director to show you their premises or enquire about the likely costs. A reputable funeral director will be more than happy to answer any questions you may have as to whether there is a Chapel of Rest, whether their staff are qualified, what the fees are, if they have mortuary facilities on site and what age and what type of vehicles are available.

A good funeral director, like Daniel Robinson & Sons will be available 24 hours a day, 52 weeks of the year, offering an emergency service with free advice and counselling. All arrangements will be made on the family's behalf, either at the funeral home or in the privacy of the family's home.

can be tailored to reflect an individual's personality, wishes and life.

With families living further apart and, in some cases moving abroad, it is not unusual for children or relatives to purchase a plan on behalf of an elderly or infirm relative or parent.

Pre-paid funeral plans are not normally regarded as forming part of a person's assets or estate, so therefore, in some circumstances this may enable the plan holder to claim benefits for which they may not otherwise qualify. This could even prove advantageous with situations involving inheritance tax.

The National Society of Allied & Independent Funeral Directors (SAIF), which Daniel Robinson & Sons are proud members of, recommend Golden Charter pre-paid funeral plans. Golden Charter work solely on behalf of 3,300 independent funeral directors throughout the UK.

Local funeral directors are proud that when plans are made with them they can use their local knowledge to personalise the pre-paid plan for the individual, with a good overview of the community that they serve. They will ensure that the most appropriate services and up to date price information is available, maintaining choice and providing a professional service. Daniel Robinson & Sons are committed to upholding their professional standards and providing both traditional and contemporary services. They are not distracted or bound by corporate rules meaning that they can concentrate on delivering the best service to you and your family.

By offering Golden Charter Independent Way Funeral Plans, Daniel Robinson & Sons ensure that their clients have the reassurance that their money is protected. Your money is paid into the Golden Charter Trust, the money grows and when the time comes to provide the agreed services to your family, the funeral director's services will be paid for no matter how much costs have risen in the intervening period.

For many people the reason that they take out a plan isn't just financial, it is peace of mind that their family will not have to deal with any worries regarding the funeral arrangements and also having the ability to specify their exact wishes. They will be pleased to meet you or have a chat over the phone, find out what you have in mind and answer any questions you may have, there is no obligation to ultimately take out a plan.

Please contact them or visit their website for further details, www.drobinson.co.uk.

Some of the oldest continuously operated businesses in Britain are family-owned firms. Without asking you may never know if the owners your family have trusted over the years continue to make the decisions which will affect the service you receive.

So, when you need the services of a funeral director, just ask. It's important that you know who you're speaking to.

A recent IPSOS Mori report highlighted in a survey of 500 towns in the UK where there was a Co-Op, Dignity & independent funeral director, that the independent funeral director offered the best value and service in every case.

BOOKS by David Walliams and Roald Dahl have topped the list of favourite reads among primary school pupils.

A survey of more than 500,000 children revealed The Demon Dentist, written by TV comedian Walliams, was the most popular book among under 12s while Roald Dahl's The Twits was the most read book in school.

Other authors who made the list included J.K. Rowling, Suzanne Collins and Jeff Kinney.

Pupils at 2,257 schools took part in the annual What Kids Are Reading survey.

The 'most read' chart indicates the amount of times a book was read in school while the books in the 'popular' list are those that children enjoyed the most.

Report author Professor Keith Topping said: "Primary school pupils, particularly in Years 1-5, show a strong preference for challenging books which are significantly beyond their natural reading age."

MOTHER'S DAY

LIFESTYLE

Some sweet treats for MUM

If you're whipping up treats this Mother's Day, look no further than the latest batch of mouth-watering Hummingbird Bakery recipes. Founder Tarek Malouf tells Kate Whiting about the American adventures that inspired them

If Mary Berry is the reigning queen of baking, then Tarek Malouf is surely next in line to the throne.

The founder of the exceedingly good Hummingbird Bakery brought cupcakes back into fashion, when he opened the first of his six bakeries back in 2004, and is just about to publish his fourth – and very eagerly-awaited – cookbook, Life Is Sweet.

It's the result of a three-week road trip in October 2013, around his spiritual baking home, America, which took him from New York to Atlanta, New Orleans and Dallas. He stayed with friends and relatives, and demanded one thing: that they show him the best desserts in town.

"Many of the recipes are regional or known in an area in the US, but not known here in the UK," he says.

"Because American bakery is not too familiar to British people, it's the equivalent of me writing a book on Indian cookery or Thai cookery – you're teaching a new audience about something that's already in existence that's amazing, and you want them to experience it yourself."

They all feature names that defy your mouth not to water: Goody Butter Cake, Molasses Pecan Crumb Cake, Red Velvet Ice Cream and Alabama Little Layer Cake, and those looking to wow their mums this Mother's Day would do well to seek inspiration among the book's brightly coloured pages.

"The rise in home baking is really nice to see," adds Lebanese-born Malouf, who moved to London when he was two.

"People are rediscovering the fun you can have making things yourself, and you get more adulation from friends and family when you bring in cookies or a big cake, rather than savoury food. There's more of a wow factor, and people are always excited."

For Malouf, the roots of American baking are steeped in traditional British recipes, but with added ingredients over the years, from the country's rich melting pot of natives and immigrants.

"American baking is fascinating to me, I love it," he says.

"We used to visit the US once a year, and I have a couple of aunts and cousins who live there, so we used to stay with them. And I have a very sweet tooth, so I developed a real taste for American desserts and cakes."

Here are three of Malouf's new recipes for inspiration...

HONEY CORNBREAD CUPCAKES

MAKES 12

Using cornmeal to make cornbread was something the early European settlers in America learned from the Native Americans they encountered. These cupcakes are sweet, denser than our normal sponges, and have a tangy cream cheese frosting flavoured with honey.

Ingredients

For the cupcakes:

170g yellow cornmeal (polenta)
135g plain flour
1tbsp baking powder
1tsp ground cinnamon
½tsp ground nutmeg
110g caster sugar
1tsp salt
2 large eggs
235ml whole milk
115g unsalted butter, melted
60g runny honey
For the frosting:

PRETTY ON A PLATE: Honey Cornbread Cupcakes

340g unsalted butter, softened
75g runny honey
285g icing sugar
150g full-fat cream cheese, such as Philadelphia, cold

Method

To make the cupcakes, preheat the oven to 175°C/Gas 4, and line a 12-hole deep muffin tin with paper muffin cases.

In a large bowl, mix the cornmeal, flour, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, sugar and salt together thoroughly.

Using a freestanding electric mixer with the whisk attachment or a hand-held electric whisk, whisk the eggs, milk, melted butter and honey together on a medium speed until very well combined. Add the dry ingredients on a low speed in one slow but steady addition. Mix thoroughly but don't overbeat.

Carefully scoop the mixture into the paper cases until three-quarters full. Using a 50ml ice-cream scoop can make this process easier and will result in even cupcakes.

Bake for 20 minutes, or until the cupcakes bounce back when lightly touched. Leave to cool slightly before removing from the tin and placing on a wire rack to cool completely before frosting.

To make the frosting, in the bowl of a freestanding electric mixer with the paddle attachment, or using a hand-held electric whisk, beat the butter for a minute to loosen it up, then add the honey and beat for a minute. Slowly add the icing sugar on a low speed until incorporated and beat for two to three minutes until light and fluffy. Add the cream cheese and mix briefly until incorporated – don't overbeat or it will split and become runny.

Pipe or spoon generous amounts of the frosting onto each cupcake, gently smoothing over with a palette knife or spoon and making a nice swirl of frosting on each one.

EARL GREY TEA PIE

MAKES A 23CM PIE

Tea in the South is drunk often, but almost always iced and sweet. We have used Earl Grey tea to give added flavour to this recipe, but any black tea of your choice can be used. If you're not using Earl Grey, which is flavoured with bergamot, you can omit the grated fruit zest.

Ingredients

500g block shortcrust pastry, or 375g ready-rolled shortcrust pastry
225g unsalted butter, softened
430g caster sugar
8 large egg yolks
175ml strong Earl Grey tea, lukewarm
1tbsp fresh lemon juice
1tsp grated mandarin zest (or clementine, tangerine or orange zest)
2tbsp plain flour
1½tsp yellow cornmeal (polenta)
½tsp salt
Preheat the oven to 175°C/Gas 4.

Method

If using shop-bought pastry, roll it out on a lightly floured surface until it is about 5mm thick and line a 23cm pie dish. Crimp the edges to suit your decorative style and chill in the fridge for one hour.

Using a freestanding electric mixer with the paddle attachment or a hand-held electric whisk, cream the butter and sugar together for around five minutes on a medium-high speed until light and fluffy.

Add the egg yolks, one at a time, on a lower speed, scraping down the sides of the bowl after each addition. Carefully add the tea, lemon juice and mandarin zest to the mixture and mix in well. On a low speed, add the flour, cornmeal and salt – don't overbeat at this stage.

Pour the filling into the pie crust and bake for about 45 minutes. The pie should be quite firm, but still have a little wobble when you move the dish. Cool completely before serving – it will set as it cools down.

BROWNIE PUDDING

MAKES A 23 X 32CM TIN, TO SCOOP OR SERVE AS DESIRED

This baked pudding ends up with a soft brownie-like texture and is incredibly easy to make, as it doesn't really require much in terms of assembly and mixing.

Ingredients

For the pudding:

245g plain flour
3½tsp baking powder
¾tsp salt
295g caster sugar
30g cocoa powder
250ml evaporated milk (unsweetened)
2tsp vanilla extract
50g butter, melted
200g chopped pecans

For the topping:

275g soft light brown sugar
60g cocoa powder
750ml hot water (boil then let cool slightly)

Method

Preheat the oven to 175°C/Gas 4. Grease a 23 x 32cm tin with butter.

To make the pudding, whisk together the flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and cocoa in a bowl.

Using a freestanding electric mixer with the paddle attachment or a hand-held electric whisk, beat the evaporated milk, vanilla and melted butter into the dry ingredients until smooth.

Fold in the pecans by hand and spread the mixture evenly

Make it a special day

IF YOU haven't already made plans for Mothering Sunday, you should start soon. This year it falls on March 15 and many restaurants will already be booked up for that day – so make sure you don't get caught out.

Treating your mum to a meal is a great way of thanking her for all she's done for you over the years – and what's more it's something you can enjoy too.

There are so many good restaurants, pubs and eateries in Herts that you're spoilt for choice, so there's no excuse not to treat mum.

Mothering Sunday is a centuries-old tradition in England when, on the fourth

Sunday in Lent, children gave their parents presents of trinkets, linen, tea, money and, especially for their mother, a rich simnel cake which was often decorated with small fruits, artificial flowers, birds eggs and nests.

Veal or lamb was usually served for dinner followed by frumenty – a pudding made from wheat grains, sugar, cinnamon and other spices.

We may not follow the same ancient traditions today, for example, simnel cakes are now associated with Easter, but the principle of saying a big thank you to our mother on this special day of the year remains unchanged.

The first official Mother's Day started in the USA when President Woodrow Wilson made the second Sunday in May the day to commemorate all US Moms.

Mother's Day was reintroduced in this country during the last war when American GIs gave gifts and cards to their landladies as a thank you for treating them like one of the family.

Now more than 30 million Mother's Day cards are bought each year as a token of a child's appreciation for their mum.

But nice as it is to give a card, why not spend some quality time with your mum and treat her to something special.

OOZING DELIGHT:

Any sweet-brownie toothed mum would love their offspring to bake this scumptious delight for dessert on Mothering Sunday. It would be perfect with cream or clotted cream ice cream.

HEARTFELT drama with powerful lead

OSCAR WINNER

Still Alice

DRAMA: (12A) 101 minutes

Starring: Julianne Moore, Alec Baldwin, Kristen Stewart, Kate Bosworth, Hunter Parrish, Shane McRae, Stephen Kunken

MEMORIES are twinkling stars in a celestial map linking our past, present and future. Some of these glittering orbs dim naturally over time, such as first experiences from childhood, while others are temporarily obscured by the fog of modern life, like when we forget a friend's birthday, what we dreamt last night, to water the plants or the last place we saw a set of keys.

Alzheimer's is an incurable neurodegenerative disease that slowly robs a patient of the ability to see these stars and chart a safe passage back to the people they love.

Names and faces of friends and family fade to black.

For those left behind, staring into the eyes of a relative who no longer recognises you, is an anguish that defies words.

Julianne Moore delivers an Oscar-winning performance as a 40-something mother faced with a diagnosis of this cruel disease in Richard Glatzer and Wash Westmoreland's heartfelt drama.

Based on the novel by Lisa Genova, Still Alice simply, yet powerfully, conveys the emotional devastation for the central character and the ripple effect for her family.

Celebrated linguistics professor Alice Howland (Moore) leads a charmed life.

She has a husband John (Alec Baldwin) and three grown-up children, Anna (Kate Bosworth), Tom (Hunter Parrish) and Lydia (Kristen Stewart), who are forging divergent paths through life.

During a lecture that she has rigorously prepared, Alice inexplicably loses her train of thought.

"I knew I shouldn't have had that Champagne," she jokes to appreciative giggles from her audience.

Alice begins to forget simple vocabulary and seeks guidance from family medic, Dr Benjamin (Stephen Kunken).

He rules out tumours or a stroke, but suspects that Alice is exhibiting the early symptoms of Alzheimer's.

"It would be rare for someone as young as yourself, but you do fit the criteria," he tells her soberly.

Tests confirm the doctor's fears and since the condition can be passed down, Alice calls together her brood.

She advises her children to be tested, which poses a dilemma for Anna and her husband Charlie (Shane McRae), who are expecting twins.

Anchored by Moore's spellbinding work, Still Alice is a modern family portrait that will strike an unsettling chord.

Baldwin tugs our heartstrings and Stewart offers strident support as the youngest member of the clan, who moves back home to reconnect with her mother while there is still time.

"I wish I had cancer," Alice tells John. "I wouldn't feel so ashamed. When people have cancer they wear pink ribbons for you and go on long walks and raise money." Still Alice feels no shame or cloying self-pity.

Writer-directors Glatzer and Westmoreland treat characters with sensitivity, touching lightly on the frustrations and blind terror that will become more frequent for Alice and her inner circle as the disease progresses.

STAR POWER:

Sigourney Weaver with Hugh Jackman and Chappie

OUT THIS WEEK

IN CHARGE:

Sigourney Weaver as CEO Michelle Bradley

Queen of SCI-FI

She's had a long and varied career, but there's no question which role she's best known for. Sigourney Weaver's portrayal of Ellen Ripley, a brave, ballsy astronaut in the 1979 film Alien, established her as a force to be reckoned with.

Now 65, Weaver is going to reprise the role for a fifth time, with Neill Blomkamp (director of District 9 and Elysium) at the helm.

"I think it's very exciting but it's a little difficult for me to believe quite yet," says the statuesque actress, looking elegantly laid-back in dark trousers and blue shirt.

She's full of praise for the 35-year-old South African director, describing him as her first choice to be in control of the film.

"Neill's one of those masterminds. He's comfortable with all of the technology, not only classic science fiction technology, but what's really happening. He's also dazzling visually."

But audiences don't have to wait for the fifth Alien movie to see Weaver back on the big screen. Her latest film, Chappie, also directed by Blomkamp, sees her play weapons corporation CEO Michelle Bradley.

Sigourney Weaver returns to the big screen in new film Chappie. She tells Susan Griffin about taking risks . . .

Chappie is set in the near future, where crime is controlled by a robotic police force who can't be reasoned or negotiated with. When a police droid – nicknamed Chappie – is stolen and given new programming, he becomes the first robot to think and feel for himself.

The film asks what it means to be human through the eyes of Vincent Moore (Hugh Jackman), who sees a thinking robot as the end of mankind, and Chappie's creator, Deon Wilson (Dev Patel), who sees his creation as the last hope for humanity.

She may seem light years from Ellen Ripley, but Weaver says her character in Chappie is groundbreaking too.

"It was fun to play a woman CEO because there are so few of us. I think there were some men considered, but Neill ended up making it Michelle and I loved that he did that."

For Michelle, the bottom line is about making money – she doesn't care.

"I think I'd be a different kind of CEO, because if someone said, 'I can make a robot who can think and feel', I'd go, 'Wow, who knows where that can take us'.

"I think there's more money in creating something new than grinding out what you've already done, but that's why I'm not a

FAMOUS ROLE: Sigourney Weaver as Ripley in Alien

CEO," Weaver laughs.

She says she's excited by the concept of artificial intelligence.

"I think it's going to be wonderful. Of course, it all depends on who programmes it. If it's someone like Dev's character, then I think you're going to have a lovely life."

Weaver's had something of a lovely life. Born and educated in New York City, Weaver graduated from Stanford University and went on to receive a Master's degree from the Yale School of Drama.

Her first professional job was an understudy in Sir John Gielgud's production of The Constant Wife, starring Ingrid Bergman, before her film debut in Alien.

Three years later, she starred in the first of the Ghostbusters franchise opposite Bill Murray and Dan Aykroyd, where she's behind the upcoming remake starring an all-female cast) and in 1987, received her first Academy Award nomination for Aliens.

Another two years earned a further two nods for her roles in Gorillas In The Mist, where she portrayed primatologist Dian Fossey and Working Girl, in which she played the boss of a secretary out on revenge.

She's since starred in the likes of thriller Copycat, comedy Jeffrey Rush, Roman Polanski's adaptation of Death And The Maiden, and the animated WALL-E. More recently, she's just finished working with The Theory Of Everything's Felicity Jones on "a wonderful movie" called A Monster Calls.

"I think it's important never to repeat yourself, and that's why I've jumped from drama to comedy to sci-fi," she says.

"I'm happy and very comfortable taking risks in my work. You've got to change it up and everyday go, 'I don't know whether I can do this' and that's why it's interesting."

Off-screen, she's married to stage director Jim Simpson, with whom she has a daughter.

"Marriage is the most exciting thing you can do and I've been married for 30 years," she says.

"I married someone I hardly knew but he's from Hawaii so he had lots of aloha!"

Weaver is currently preparing for the new Avatar films, which will reunite her with Aliens director James Cameron. Her character was mortally wounded in the 2009 Avatar movie, but "no one ever dies in science fiction".

"I just know I'm playing a really cool character so I'm kind of working on it to the extent of what I know," she says.

The three movies, due for release in 2017, 2018 and 2019, will be filmed simultaneously.

"We haven't started yet, but when we do, we'll all probably disappear off the face of the earth for a year-and-a-half."

Chappie is released on Friday.

Dancing with PASHA

It is just over two months since Pasha Kovalev lifted the glitterball trophy on BBC One's Strictly Come Dancing with his partner Caroline Flack.

The two had not only been awarded perfect scores from the judges in the final, but had won the love of the viewing public.

Now, the Russian dance professional is taking to the stage in his own tour, Life Through Dance.

The show includes something for all the family. There will be three couples on stage, including So You Think You Can Dance partner Anya.

"I think we have a great rapport with each other," he said.

"We know exactly what one another wants having been working with each other for a long time.

"We know the best way to dance to one another. It's much easier and it's quite exciting that we are able to do that one more time."

Seeing dancing at the theatre allows the audience to experience something new, he says.

"I want people to experience the dance that they see on TV live.

"There's nothing like feeling what the person is feeling at the moment they are. There's nothing like that emotional connection between the audience and the dancer.

"What they have seen on TV is completely different when compared to coming to the theatre and seeing what's going on on the stage.

"The show is two hours of absolute fun and you will be transported into a completely different world. I know people always go out with a big smile."

During the show Pasha will also have some special guests including one from Harlow performing arts school Makin Steps.

Tutor Scott Simpson said: "We are very excited to have been asked by Pasha's production company to perform on his 2015 tour. To be chosen for this is a great honour especially as he is the 2014 Strictly winner.

"For the show, we have been asked to choreograph two 6 minute numbers which include a variety of different dance styles that we cover at the school.

"This also includes performing alongside Pasha as well.

"My brother Ross and myself are busy choreographing and rehearsing these completely new numbers and cannot wait to be a part of the tour.

"We have nearly 30 dancers taken part from both of our formation teams."

ANNE'S tragic tale of life in wartime

HARLOW Theatre Company is marking the 70th anniversary of the relief of the Auschwitz and Bergen-Belsen concentration camp with the production of The Diary of Anne Frank.

The well-known story follows a young girl and her Jewish family in hiding during the Nazi occupation of Holland. It's a tale of ordinary people in extraordinary circumstance and is arguably just as relevant now as it ever has been, with events in Ukraine and Syria bringing to light devastating the impact of war on everyday people.

A spokesman for the company said: "The play reveals the compelling story of love, compassion and life under extreme pressure.

"It is not, I am happy to report, all doom and gloom; there is a great deal of humour and fun amid the drama, which tells the tale of ordinary people in extraordinary circumstance.

The play is a timely reminder of what can happen when absolute power rests in the hands of one uncontrollable party and one uncontrollable man.

Could this happen now? Perhaps it is – think of Ukraine or Syria."

Old Harlow actress Molly Jenkins will be playing the real-life part of Anne Frank in the story of love, compassion and life under extreme pressure.

She is delighted to take on the very challenging role of Anne, with all its fun, emotion and pathos.

She will be joined on stage by Tony Saxby, who plays the part of troubled father Otto Frank, who released his daughter's diary many years after the war.

The show is directed by Alan Jones.

Performances at Victoria Hall Theatre March from Wednesday, March 11 to Saturday, March 14 at 7.30pm. Tickets at £11 and £9 concessions (concessions not available Saturday) from www.Ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany.

DANCE

WINTER'S nearly over and it's time to start thinking about getting in shape for summer.

If you want to tone up and trim without resorting to the gym or a rigid exercise regime, why not try a ballet class? Ballet has become increasingly popular among adults in recent years as it's proven to aid fitness and help tone the body.

Harlow Ballet School runs classes for adults every week and is looking to recruit new members to its Saturday morning mixed-ability group. The class is held in the ground floor studio at the Playhouse from 10.30am to 11.30am and includes exercise at the barre as well as tuition in movement. Lessons cost £6 per week.

School principal Michael Branwell says: "You don't have to be a skilled dancer to take part in this class. We have adult students of varying abilities: some have been dancing all their lives, some are returning to it after a long absence and others have never put on a pair of ballet shoes before. But they all get a tremendous amount of enjoyment out of the class.

"We can't guarantee that you will lose weight with ballet, but it definitely helps to tone the body – I've known adult students who have dropped two dress sizes in just a few months."

Anyone interested in joining the class can contact Michael on (01279) 639170 or look on the website at www.harlowballet.co.uk.

KASABIAN and CALVIN HARRIS to headline V

"V is for victory, V is for voodoo, V is for vacuum cloud, V is for very, very, very excited. See you in the fields!

BACK AT V: Kasabian will headline the main stage this year

V Festival 2015 celebrates 20 years since it first opened its gates with global platinum-selling DJ Calvin Harris and Leicester rockers Kasabian headlining the main stage.

Taking place across the weekend of August 22 and 23 this summer, the two festival sites in Hylands Park, Chelmsford, and Weston Park, Staffordshire, will be supported by legendary Welsh crooner Tom Jones, plus four-time Grammy and 2015 Brit winner Sam Smith, who went to school in Saffron Walden.

Music lovers will also get a chance to see Ellie Goulding, The Script, Hozier, George Ezra, Stereophonics, Brit winners Paloma Faith and James Bay, Olly Murs, Chvrches, Imelda May, Kodaline, Ella Henderson, Nero and Reverend and the Makers, plus many more left to be announced across four stages at both festival sites.

Festival Director Simon Moran said: "We wanted to champion British talent at this year's festival and with the likes of Calvin and Kasabian leading the way we don't think it'll disappoint. The eclectic mix of established artists and rising stars, with a few more in the pipeline, means that once again there is something for everyone at V Festival.

"It's incredible to think what V has achieved in two decades. When we started out in '96, we were two stages and one tent, with the northern site only hosting one day of acts. Since then we've hosted some of the most iconic acts from around the world. Here's to another decade."

The Glee Club Comedy Tent also returns as the festival's fifth stage this year, with a line-up that will be announced in the coming months.

Over the festival weekend there'll also be sets from The Courteeners, Marina & The Diamonds, The Proclaimers, Jess Glynne, Andy C, The Kooks, Gregory Porter, Fuse ODG, Clean Bandit, Duke Dumont, Jessie Ware, Ella Eyre, Hannah Wants and Grandmaster Flash.

Making his debut on top of the bill, Calvin Harris said: "V Festival is always an incredible time and I can't wait to headline it this year. See you there."

The V Style camping will also return for its fifth year. V Style is now an established part of the V Festival family, giving music fans the chance to experience the best of both worlds – enjoying a mix of music and comedy, whilst relaxing at pampering stations and in ready built bell tents, huts, and luxury yurts.

Kasabian's frontman, Sergio Pizzorno, said: "V is for victory, V is for voodoo, V is for vacuum cloud, V is for very very very excited. See you in the fields."

Essex early bird tickets

Tickets go on sale from March 6 at 9am with fans advised to visit www.vfestival.com, where all official outlets are detailed.

V organisers again stress to fans that purchasing tickets from unofficial outlets could lead to disappointment.

But Essex residents can purchase up to four tickets through the dedicated Essex residents' booking system for the Chelmsford festival site, 24-hours before national sales commence.

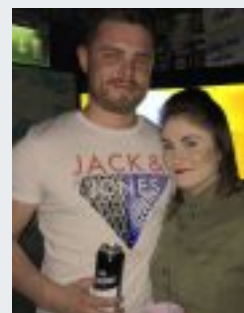

From 9am on Thursday, March 5 a limited number of tickets will be available to residents who live within a three-mile radius of the centre of Hylands Park.

REACTION: V FEST PARTY VOX POPS

GOOD VALUE: Sam and Kerry Bullock, who's a Sam Smith fan

GOING BACK: Tom and Angelo will be at V this year

MONDAY evening saw the V Festival 2015 launch party for their 20th anniversary at the Mahiki nightclub in London.

MTV host Becca Dudley announced that Kasabian and Calvin Harris are headlining the 2015 V Festival.

At the packed Mahiki club were competition winners who had emailed in selfies – V Festival selfies – to win launch party tickets.

Of those winners, Kerry Bullock from Stowmarket, gave her reaction to the line-up.

She said: "I love Sam Smith. I've been for the last four years, and so far Eminem and Rihanna have been the best.

"I think it's well worth the money if you camp, particularly at the Chelmsford site."

Another winner was Angelo. He said: "The line-up could've been better, but I enjoyed the launch party. I am looking forward to coming back to Chelmsford."

"My favourite act in the line-up, believe it or not, is Tom Jones. I'm also keen on Sam Smith as we went to the same school as me."

Another V fest fan, Tom, said: "It's a good strong line-up. I am chuffed Ed Sheeran will be there, he's had a good year and it'll be great to see him."

Looking very pleased about the announcement were friends Mika and Jilly. Jilly said: "It's our first V Fest, I'm looking forward to seeing what it's all about."

"It's a really good line-up. I'm happy they've gone down the route of big British acts."

"It's a great way to mark 20 years of V. It'll be great to see Annie Mac there and also Duke Dumont."

"We're very happy, roll on V Fest."

10 SECOND REVIEW:

The Volkswagen Passat really hits the ground running in version eight. More spacious and stylish with a range of economical diesel engines and an all-wheel drive 240PS flagship, the Passat builds in a host of high-tech features but still majors on ride quality and cabin refinement.

NEW PASSAT CUTS A DASH

TESTED: Volkswagen Passat range

As much as we like to think that the automotive world revolves around this sceptred isle, the truth is somewhat different.

Here we hold up the BMW 3 Series as the paragon of success in building sales volumes on the back of premium build quality, yet in global terms the 3 Series is a bit-part player compared to Volkswagen's Passat.

How successful is the Passat? You might want to sit down for this one. It sells more than the entire product line-ups of BMW or Audi – fully 1.1 million cars a year, with China and the US the biggest recipients.

It's a car that plays a very deft hand, bridging the gap between the mainstream and premium marques while delivering comfort and value that's often market-leading. It's why the Passat is now Volkswagen's most successful nameplate and the reason why Wolfsburg can't afford to get generation eight wrong.

This is the section where we normally muse about power outputs, steering feel and how a car handles, but none of that is really that germane to a discussion on the Passat. Here it's all about refinement and ride quality. Not a lot else matters. With that in mind, we were quite surprised to find Dynamic Chassis Control, a function that alters the steering weighting, the sharpness of the throttle response and the firmness of the suspension on the options list.

Big sales depend on the 2.0-litre 150PS diesel engine and it's a unit that's respectably refined, doing its best work between 2,250 and 3,500rpm with precious little in the way of vibration or diesel rumble entering the cabin.

The 1.6-litre 120PS diesel isn't quite so impressive, but graduate further up the range and you'll find a 190PS 2.0 TDI and the range-topping all-wheel drive biturbo 2.0-litre, good for a hefty 240PS. There's even a GTE plug-in petrol/electric hybrid model offered.

The manual gearbox has evolved into something Volkswagen is rightly proud of, although a DSG twin-clutch still seems a more natural fit for the Passat. As ever, the 17-inch wheel and tyre set will offer better ride comfort than the stiffer sidewalled 18-inch rubber.

The difficulty in attracting buyers away from the likes of BMW and Audi is that you need your product to offer all the attractions of a BMW and Audi but at a more competitive price.

That includes looking as expensive as these brands which is something the Passat has often struggled to achieve. Not any more. At least not from the outside, where the latest Passat looks sleek, chiselled and polished.

In fact, the latest car is a touch shorter but both lower and wider than before and with 79mm more built into the wheelbase, there's more space in the cabin.

The dashboard is a good deal more set-square than before, although Volkswagen would probably call it architectural. It now features a big central screen and a set of optional digital 'virtual' dials. The seats, as in most Volkswagens, initially feel unyielding but are supremely comfortable over longer distances.

Three adults can fit in the back too. The boot measures an enormous 586-litres (up from 565) while the estate gets even more, with 650-litres available under the tonneau (up from 603).

Prices start at just over £22,000 for the 120PS diesel in S trim, with the DSG 'box adding another £1,600. The 150PS diesel opens at just over £23,000 with a six-speed manual. You'll need to ascend to the GT trim level to get your mitts on the 190PS diesel engine and that'll set you back around £28,000. The big banger of the range is the all-wheel drive 240PS model and this also starts at GT level, costing around £34,500 with the DSG shifter. Alternatively you can pay another £1,000 for R-Line specification and a seven rather than six-speed box. Estates tack another £1,500 onto the asking price of the four-door cars.

The range runs through S, SE, SE Business, GT and R-Line

trims and feature equipments such as a Post-Collision Braking System and mis-fuelling prevention on all models, Front Assist, Adaptive Cruise Control, Pre-Crash system, Driver Profile Selection, Ergo Comfort seats and front and rear parking sensors on SE and above; and Discover Navigation on the SE Business which is aimed at fleet drivers.

Heated Alcantara seats, three-zone climate control and 18-inch wheels are standard on GT, while the range-topping R-Line adds seems to empty the rest of the options list into the car.

For all the talk of premium quality and engine refinement, the Passat is a car that absolutely has to nail the right numbers when it comes to efficiency, largely because it still relies on company buyers.

Big Cats back in town and enjoying the view

Leopards top table as they return to Brentwood Centre

ESSEX Leopards return to the Brentwood Centre on Sunday after seven weeks away, sitting one win clear at the top of the Basketball League Division One table.

Saturday's thrilling 73-66 victory against Hemel Storm at Harlow Leisurezone followed by a 75-63 win at Bradford on Sunday, coupled by two defeats against previous leaders Hemel Storm, sees the Big Cats now in control of their own destiny with seven games remaining.

Four of those games are at the Brentwood Centre on successive Sundays, starting with the visit of Westminster Warriors this week, tip-off 4pm.

The London side have had a tough season and are second-bottom of the table with a 4-13 record, but Leopards will remember that it took a Dave Ajumobi basket in the dying seconds to give them a 61-60 victory when the teams met at Mobley Leisure Centre in late November.

Comfortable

In contrast, the National Trophy meeting between the teams at Harlow six weeks earlier saw Leopards comfortably win 82-56.

Leopards certainly did it the hard way against Storm on Saturday as they fought back from a 15-point second-period deficit to pick up their 12th league victory of the campaign.

Ajumobi and Will Ashby led the way for Robert Youngblood's team with 27 points apiece.

Ajumobi added 12 rebounds for another double-double and Ashby hit five of his nine three-point attempts and dished out six assists.

Courtney van Beest added 12 points and four rebounds as Leopards survived a poor shooting night from captain Albert Margai, who failed to trouble the scorers with his 12 attempts.

CLOSE ENCOUNTER:

Ajumobi and Ashby got going early in the game as the home side hit the first five points but Storm answered with a 14-2 run and went into the first break with a 23-11 lead.

Michael Darlow drained a trey to put Hemel 30-15 up at the mid-stage of the second quarter but an Ashby triple off Margai's assist finally got Leopards moving, and Ajumobi capped a 7-0 run before hitting a buzzer beater to cut the deficit to 34-27 going into the locker room at half-time.

The Big Cats finally tightened up their defence in the third quarter.

A pair of Ashby free-throws capped a 17-3 run that had the large crowd on its feet and put the home side ahead for the first time since the early stages with the score at 46-44, and from then on it was nip and tuck.

The sides were still level heading into the final six minutes but scores from Ashby and Ajumobi put Leopards ahead for the final time before Storm's Bode Adeoluola hit a three to set up a grandstand finish to make it a one-point game heading into the final two minutes.

An Ajumobi score made it a four-point game before Adeoluola halved the lead at the foul line and a great defensive play saw Ladi Brown hurl himself across the court to steal the ball and, fittingly, it was Brown who wrapped up the victory with a breakaway dunk in the final seconds.

In contrast, Leopards' win at Bradford was much more comfortable as they led for most of the game.

The Big Cats edged a tight first period 18-16 before taking control in the second period to lead 44-31 at half-time.

They held that 13-point lead at the final break, 48-35, and at the mid-point in the fourth period they were 69-56 ahead and their lead never went in single digits as they closed out the win.

Ajumobi continued his fine season with 24 points, with Margai adding 14, Ashby 13 and Byron Richards 11.

Three-point shooting proved to be the key as Leopards hit ten from 24 outside the arc while Dragons missed their 13 efforts.

Back-to-back wins for Hawks

HARLOW Hawks rallied to their second straight victory with a 68-57 success away to Hitchin Kings in the Herts Basketball League Division One.

The Hawks opened strongly with a 12-3 run.

Dave Griffin and Russ Allan found the basket as the Hawks defence prevented the Kings from scoring inside.

In the second quarter, the Hawks increased their lead with scores from Allan and Rimantas Norkeliunas.

Tom White anchored the Hawks' defence, blocking multiple shots and securing defensive rebounds, allowing the Hawks to impose stronger perimeter defence.

The two teams traded points until half-time, with the score 33-26.

In the second half the teams continued to trade as Daniel Cohen picked up eight points to maintain the Hawks lead.

The Kings stayed in the game though, as a few mistakes from the Hawks allowed easy scores.

Shab Niaz once again showed some great clutch play in the fourth quarter, hitting back-to-back three pointers.

Further scores from Griffin and a great driving score from captain Lee Morris capped off an 11-4 run and put the Hawks firmly back in the driving seat.

A pair of late three pointers from the home team was not enough, as the Hawks triumphed.

HARLOW HAWKS: S. Niaz (17 pts), R. Allen (10 pts), D. Griffin (9 pts), D. Cohen (8 pts), A. Hinds (8 pts), L. Morris (5pts), R. Norkeliunas (6 pts), T. White (4 pts), R. Whytock (2 pts) S. Burgess, S. Friedner, J. Dutnall.

Great start for boccia team

BOCCIA: A Harlow-based boccia club have made so much progress they have been able to launch a team in the England National League.

With a squad of 12 players, all with various physical and additional needs, the team have been practising for a year now.

Boccia is a Paralympic sport for athletes with disabilities and has a major impact on motor skills.

The sport belongs to the same family as petanque and bowls.

The English National League is a pan-disability team competition, split into county/regional groups where top teams progress to a national final.

The Harlow Hurricanes team played YMCA Romford in their first match last month.

It was a great game which was played as a double fixture, with the Hurricanes losing their first match 7-5, but winning their second match 6-4.

They will go on to play further matches in their regional league.

All Ability Sports and Leisure, a Harlow based group, provide weekly sports activities for people with a disability, and boccia is just one of the sports played.

If you know of anyone with a disability who would like to try out one of these sports, contact Helen Offord, one of the group's trustees, on 07986603313 or email Helen@allabilitysportsandleisure.co.uk

Watts sizes up Big one in US

ATHLETICS: Harlow runner Sam Watts ran a 20.10sec 200m to claim fifth place in one of the biggest races in the USA.

The former Leventhorpe student was competing in the Big 12 Indoor Track and Field Championships in Ames, Iowa.

Watts (23), in the second year of a scholarship degree at the Texas Christian University, also ran the third leg in the 4x400m relay, just one hour after competing in the 200m.

He clocked 46.20, with his university team finishing fourth in 3:08.62.

Watts' next event will be the NCAA Indoor Championships from March 13-15 in Fayetteville, Arkansas, where all the best college athletes in the USA will compete.

Great start for Team G3Pro

KARTING: Team G3Pro got their season off to a flyer with victory at Buckmore Park in Kent in round one of the Club100 Inters/Rookies Enduro.

The Harlow team, consisting of Matt Hale and brothers Craig, Barry and Stewart Luetchford, completed the 150 laps in a time of 120min 28.952secs.

This was 19 seconds ahead of second-placed KOKS Racing Inters, who clocked 120:48.934.

Their best lap time was 46.918 seconds.

The team had earlier qualified in pole position at the Kent circuit.

Some 34 teams and 90 drivers competed.

The team are next in action in round two at Ellough Park in Suffolk on March 14.

Tragic Kyle's old team Brays win cup final in memory of him

THE first Harlow & District League silverware of the season was won by Brays Athletic Reserves.

They triumphed 4-1 against Riley's Rangers at The Harlow Arena in Sunday's Kyle Brooks Division Four Cup final.

Kyle (pictured right), who played for Brays, was 28 when he was killed after being struck by a vehicle on the A12 last October.

His parents Steph and Rob were guests of honour at the cup final and they were presented to the teams before a minute's applause in memory of Kyle.

Brays started the game well and Jack Hayter opened the scoring inside the first minute after lobbing the keeper from 25 yards out.

After Riley's had a goal ruled out for offside, Chay Homan equalised with a good team goal on 15 minutes.

Hayter then scored his second after a mix-up just inside the area when he shot with the outside of his foot. Riley's keeper Wade Morton got his hands to it but could not keep it out.

After some good football from Brays' Dan Caswell, he crossed to the far post for Tom Phillips to volley the ball in for 3-1.

Late into the first half, Caswell did well to beat his defender and cross the ball for Jack Margrain to flick it on with Hayter smashing the ball into the back of the net from the edge of the box for his hat-trick and Brays' fourth.

The second half did not see any goals with very few chances created by either team, but the game was played in a good spirit.

Hayter was named man of the match before Jack Caswell lifted the cup in memory of Kyle.

League spokesman Martin Hayter said: "The Brooks family would like to thank the HDLFL, Brays and Riley's for making it a special day for them."

Athletes cream of the county champs crop

Southern Inter-counties selection and gold medals

Cross Country

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

YOUNG athletes from Harlow produced a string of outstanding performances at the Essex Schools' Cross Country Championships.

Fourteen Harlow pupils from four different schools competed in the championships near Upminster.

Two excellent gold medals were achieved by Hayden Maleary and Sidnie Ward, along with eight pupils being selected to represent Essex at the Southern Schools Inter Counties match on March 28 at Somerville School near Tonbridge, Kent.

In the Year 7 girls' race over 2000 metres with 250 starting, Mark Hall student Charlotte Pratt remained in a prominent position throughout, taking fifth place in 8min 26sec, just 22 seconds behind the winner and securing her first Essex Schools vest.

New to running

Charlotte's school mate and fellow Harlow Athletic Club member Savanna Sirkett also ran well to place 28th in 9:03.

This was just ahead of St Nicholas pupil Georgina Handford, who was 30th in 9:05.

In 61st place was St Nicholas pupil Beau Ottley, new to running, in 9:50, with Burnt Mill's Jessica Mossop 75th in 10:03.

In the Year 7 boys' race over 2500 metres with 250 starting, Burnt Mill's Sidnie Ward stuck close to the leader and race favourite Harry Parker (Thurrock) and as they emerged from the woods after halfway. Sidnie broke away to come home 21 seconds up on Parker in 9:23.

In fourth place and returning from injury was Passmores pupil and Harlow Athletic Club member Kai Boggon, who had a fine run in 9:53, sealing his first Essex Schools vest.

Another to excel was Stewards pupil Joe Morgan, also HAC, who was tenth in 10:17. He also won selection for Essex.

Burnt Mill students Jack Taylor and Liam Waldron finished 90th and 92nd respectively in 11:35 and 11:37.

In the Year 8 boys' 2800m race from 200 starters, Burnt Mill student Hayden Maleary was in the leading pack over the first half of the race, until he took over to cross the line in an excellent first place in 10:57.

Only 23 seconds down on Hayden was his twin brother Todd, enjoying an excellent run to place ninth in 11:20 to join the others at Tonbridge.

In the Year 8 girls 2500m race with 200 starters, Burnt Mill's Siena Taylor took an early lead and stayed there until 500m from the finish, when she slipped back to sixth with just 16 seconds covering the top six.

Siena clocked 10:46.

Joining Siena at the Southern Inter-counties Championships, will be Burnt Mill student Hannah Page, who placed 11th in 11:24.

Harlow AC chairman Gina Bailey paid tribute to the contingent from her club. She said: "We are so proud of Kai, Joe, Charlotte and Savanna, they are a real credit to their schools, community and HAC."

"They train extremely hard and deserve a huge amount of credit for their commitment and dedication to the sport."

explained: "He did what Dadson does, he scores goals. We looked at it in training, swapping him from right to left and it paid off."

"I thought he caused the right-back no end of problems and to be fair they didn't really know how to deal with him."

The Hawks wowed the 250 in attendance inside The Harlow Arena with five goals in barely the first half hour.

But Barkingside had got off to the perfect start when they caught the Hawks napping in the tenth minute.

Jason Fontaine's shot was saved by the feet of keeper Andy Walker, but the ball rebounded to Calvin Poku who rifled home.

Harlow replied almost immediately. Dadson cut in from the left and fired a right-footed shot low into the net.

Captain Dave Copley's low in-swinging right-footed corner on 17 minutes out-foxed the Barkingside defenders and keeper and found its way in.

Junior Appiah made it 3-1

after 20 minutes. Dadson chipped a delightful pass towards his namesake, who finished coolly, side-footing his shot across the goalkeeper.

Barkingside refused to surrender and closed the gap when skipper Joe Bricknell hit a sweet half-volley from inside the box.

But Harlow extended their lead when Dadson bent a low shot into a far corner on 27 minutes.

Dadson's stellar hat-trick was completed in the 31st minute when he weaved his way through the soft Barkingside defence and rifled home past the despairing Barkingside keeper.

Chapman added: "It's a win which is most important this time of the year, with the end of the season approaching. Nobody can say they didn't get their money's worth today."

Harlow host Aveley next Saturday and could be without striker Alex Read who went off injured against Barkingside.

Harlow are now two points behind leaders Needham Market, who won 1-0 at Tilbury on Tuesday.

Rams need to keep up with the neighbours

Skipper: Club must avoid 'cancer' of paying players

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SKIPPER Shaun Roberts knows all too well Harlow Rugby Club stand at the precipice of a bright new future.

Aside from the t's being crossed and the i's dotted, the Rams will start work later this year on their million-pound plus new complex at Latton Farm off Second Avenue.

It was finally approved in December by Harlow Council after the scheme was first mooted some 20 years ago.

Veteran forward Roberts knows the opportunity is there to turn the club into one of the biggest in Essex.

But he has warned club supremos to avoid the 'cancer' of starting to pay players in order to progress the club back to the standard it was playing at 15 years ago.

In fact, Roberts thinks the Rams need to take a leaf out of Harlow's arch-rivals Bishop's Stortford, where youngsters filter through the age groups and senior teams towards the first team.

The captain explained: "I have had an interest in what goes on at Stortford, as my son plays there, just because that's where he goes to school.

"But it takes ten years of developing youth the way Bishop's Stortford did, rather than paying players which I think is a cancer, for want of a better word, for a club. With paying players, once the money runs out they go.

A cancer

"So with Harlow boys playing, then you have got a chance of developing up through the leagues."

It seems a long time ago that Harlow were playing at a higher level than their neighbours down the A1184.

The Rams were a strong outfit in London One.

But, while the Bishops now ply their trade in National Two South, just three divisions below Saracens, Harlow have found it hard to get out of London Division Three North East over the last few years.

But Roberts knows the new stadium will inject optimism into a club that has been in the doldrums in recent years.

At the heart of the project is a first team pitch using state-of-the-

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE: Work will start soon on the new Harlow Rugby Club stadium at Latton Farm. First team captain Shaun Roberts (inset) art turf used in the American NFL.

No more muddy marvels on a Saturday afternoon.

However, it is the opportunity to extend the club's already thriving youth programme, which is pivotal.

The 7.5 hectare plot of land at Latton Farm will provide six pitches as well as a new pavilion.

Roberts explained: "We have already got a lot of youngsters coming through. The seconds have got a lot of youngsters coming through.

"The impending move will really help with us attracting more youth players."

It was back in the early 1970s that rugby really took off in the town and owed much to the arrival of Welshmen such as Alan Price (64), now the club president, when he started teaching at Mark Hall School in Harlow, where he still teaches part-time.

Roberts is well aware of the input of Price and his fellow Welsh school teachers, and knows the club desperately need similar figures to feed young players into the Essex club.

Roberts said: "Don't forget this club played in the National Leagues for years and years and years, because of the quality of the schools around here and the Welsh teachers that played rugby and got them down here.

"Unfortunately they all retired and it didn't keep coming through, so we need to get into the schools and make sure they know there is a facility to learn and play rugby. That's what we really want to do."

"I think it's making sure that we use the money wisely and invest in youth."

Director of rugby Lee Harron was just breaking into the first team back in the 1990s when the plans for a new stadium were first put forward.

The contentious plans have divided opinion in Harlow, with many equally concerned about the proposal for 130 homes on the club's old ground in Elizabeth Way.

It might not float everyone's boat, but certainly from a sporting perspective it's a chance for Harlow to have facilities unparalleled in this region.

Harron is excited about what the future will bring.

"The move was coming when I was 18 or 19. It's been over 20 years in the making. When it comes it will be fantastic and it will be good for some of these boys," he enthused.

"It's difficult with schools as they are all directed by the curriculum, but that's very important. We need to get into the schools.

"The minis section is thriving, which is good. But it's about getting into those schools and getting the youngsters to come and play."

Ladies don't like to be beside the seaside as Southwold prove too strong

THE trip to Southwold in Suffolk proved a difficult one for the Harlow Ladies as they went down to a 17-0 defeat in the RFUW National Challenge South East North One.

Harlow played a strong first half, with Jenny Mills at scrum-half working well with the forwards in the rucks, enabling them to take quick ball over the gain line.

The windy conditions made passing difficult.

Southwold defended well and prevented Lorna Hunter from scoring a try with the ball being deemed held up.

Near the end of the first half a Southwold player ran the full length of the pitch to score a superb try.

Harlow started the second half positively with Emma Hancock running some strong lines from the wing.

However, a couple of injuries, particularly a head injury to Sarah Stimpson, meant the back line had to be reorganised, disrupting the team.

This gave Kelly Smith her first time back on the pitch in over a year, returning from a knee injury.

Southwold scored a second try when some poor defence from Harlow on the try-line meant the hosts had to jump on the rolling ball.

Their third try quickly followed.

Harlow were denied a consolation try when Kathleen

Blake dived for the try-line but was pushed into touch.

■ HARLOW Colts lost a thrilling game 22-17 at home to South Woodham Ferrers.

Mitchell Hodgkinson, Jack Almond and Dan Stevenson grabbed the tries for the Young Rams.

Alfie Clark added one conversion.

Hockey

High-flyers sink Harlow

PROMOTION-chasing Southend & Benfleet were too strong for Harlow in the Essex Women's Hockey League Premier Division.

Despite being under the cosh, hosts Harlow created a few chances in the first half with Steffi Hawes and Emma Tweddle both having attempts on goal.

Harlow went into half-time with a 2-0 deficit.

Harlow fought on and Anna Ferdinando's powerful fine shot produced a brilliant save from the Southend keeper.

Harlow's player of the match Petra Trimble frequently turned the game from defence into attack, but this didn't stop Southend scoring three more goals to seal a 5-0 win.

Harlow keeper Laura Hay made some superb saves.

Harlow are away to Brentwood this Saturday in search of a much needed win.

■ HARLOW'S 10-0 away win against Southend thirds means they are two points clear at the top of Essex Women's Hockey League Division Four.

Harlow's scorers were Tanishka Naidoo (3), Lara Horrax, Tracey Taylor, Sarah Donaghey (3) and Sarah Alderson (2).

Harlow wrap up their campaign against Brentwood on Saturday.

Second-placed Chelmsford's fifth team have two matches in hand, and are set to overtake Harlow at the top.

Mauling for ten players

A LACK of personnel cost Harlow as they suffered a 5-1 mauling at the hands of Witham thirds in the East Men's Hockey League Division Six South East.

Harlow went into this game with only ten players and so deployed a more defensive formation with just one striker to help pull Witham's defence back and allow for a counter attack.

This started well for the away side as they broke well and took the lead through Benn Hagger.

Harlow then came under serious pressure from the home side which saw them convert three times before half-time.

The second half saw some more counter attacking play from Harlow, but to no avail.

Witham pushed more forward and scored twice more to make it 5-1.

Harlow were denied three times, and in each situation were left angered by what they claimed was serious foul play not spotted by the referee.

The loss left Harlow, who are at home to fourth-placed Waltham Forest on Saturday, in seventh place.

TYE Green bowler Steve Mitchinson is set to represent England in the British Isles series this weekend.

Mitchinson played in this tournament last year.

ATHLETES SHOW SHEFFIELD STEEL

English Champs joy for contingent of Harlow starlets

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Athletic Club coach Steve Lott paid a glowing tribute to its contingent of six youngsters who showed plenty of Sheffield steel at the English Age Group Indoor Championships.

Naomi Harryman took part in the U20 long jump recording a season best, while Dylan Ellis and Mohamed Tamedou competed in the U20 60m sprint.

U17 athletes Shemar Boldiszar and Harry Woodall lined up in the 60m sprint, while Boldiszar also took part in the 200m.

Will Marklew competed in the U20 60m hurdles.

Lott, hugely encouraged by their stunning performances, said: "Naomi has been a standard bearer for some time and now others are beginning to believe that they too can step up and compete on a national stage."

"I'm so pleased for all our athletes and their coaches. I'm sure I can speak on behalf of all connected with the club when I say we're very proud of them."

Former St Mark's School student Harryman made her longest jump of the year so far with 5.80m on Saturday.

She came fifth in the final, a huge achievement bearing in mind she is competing against much older girls.

Her leap was the same distance as the athlete who placed fourth.

Harryman missed out on fourth as her second best jump was not as long in the count back.

"This was an excellent performance and keeps her on track to reach the six metre mark required to qualify for the Junior World Championships," explained Lott.

Ellis ran 7.19sec in a tight 60m heat, setting a club record in the process.

FUTURE PROMISE: The Harlow Athletic Club youngsters who competed at the English Indoor Championships in Sheffield. (From left) Mohamed Tamedou, Dylan Ellis, Shemar Boldiszar and Harry Woodall. (Inset), Naomi Harryman

But he missed out on the semi-final in a photo finish which left him fourth.

Tamedou matched his club-mate's time in the subsequent heat.

But Tamedou qualified for the semi-finals and went even quicker in the next stage, clocking 7.14sec but sadly not quick enough to make the final.

In the U17 event, Woodall and Boldiszar were drawn in the same heat.

Boldiszar's time of 7.41 saw him into the semi-finals.

Unfortunately, Woodall's time of 7.51 was not quick enough to see him through.

In the semi-final, Boldiszar dropped his time to 7.28; setting a PB in the process but missed out on a final spot.

He remained in Sheffield to compete in the 200m on Sunday. His heat time of 23.20s qualified him as a fastest loser for the semi-finals and set a PB for him.

In his semi-final he went a fraction quicker to reduce his PB to 23.19, but did not make the final.

His time was the 12th quickest of the weekend.

Completing the Harlow contingent, Marklew was fifth in his 60m hurdles heat in 8.90 so did not make it through to the semi-finals.

Meanwhile, Dominique Diomande and Regan Lawrence have been selected to represent Essex in the regional Sporthall competition.

Diomande will be representing the U15 age group, while Regan will be representing the U11.

Lawrence is now the UK's number one ranked 60m sprinter for the U11 age group.

Both boys attended their first county training session this weekend and met up with their new team-mates.

Tony Benton, Essex Network Manager, presented both boys with their county shirts in front of parents and athletes.

They will be representing Essex in the Eastern Regional Sporthall final taking place at Hatfield on March 22.

Ref incident leads to dismissal

THE Rams' hopes of a top four finish were boosted by Saturday's convincing 29-10 win over a Beccles side who had a man sent off when he made physical contact with the referee.

Beccles player Marcus Sale was dismissed in the first half after trying to protest against a yellow card for a team-mate in the London Division Three North East match.

At the time, Harlow led 14-0. Two second half yellow cards for the visitors left them severely depleted, but the Rams failed to press home their advantage.

Earlier, the hosts charged down a Beccles clearance kick and quickly exploited the situation to allow Darren Hawking to run in the first try on five minutes.

Fly-half Dan Smith converted. A few minutes later from a 20m scrum, winger Will Grimley ran in the second try, which Smith again converted.

Midway through the first half the whole game changed when Beccles were penalised with a yellow card for a high tackle.

Sale was then dismissed after making contact with the ref. With Beccles down to 13 men the scrummages went uncontested.

Harlow failed to press home their advantage and, after a penalty for each side, the Rams led 17-3 at the break.

Harlow finally scored their third try on 65 minutes. Forwards and backs combined as Grimley went over for his second try near a corner.

With the game drawing to a close and Harlow facing 13 men for the third time in the match, the Rams managed to spin the ball wide for Kain Claridge to run in the all important fourth try and secure the bonus point.

Smith converted.

In the final minute of the game Beccles came back and powered their way over for a converted try through Cameron Bonner.

Harlow will receive a stern test when they visit fifth-placed Lowestoft & Yarmouth this Saturday.

Harlow remain fourth and are nine points ahead of Lowestoft.
